At Singapore Sports School, student-athletes are expected to be Champions for Others above and beyond being a Sport Champion and Champion for Sports. Owen Wong Wen Fei's heart to give back to sport and to champion Sports School's cause to help disabled athletes was evident when he completed his first Project Champions Way donation card barely two weeks after receiving it.

Project Champions Way is Sports School's annual Values in Action initiative, where student-athletes and staff work together to raise funds for our chosen beneficiary. This year, several activities and events have been planned to raise a target amount of $50,000 for Singapore Disability Sports Council and Special Olympics Singapore; one of which is through the collection of donation cards. As part of the school-wide VIA, Sports School will be co-organising the 2nd Singapore National Para Games with SDSC on 20 May 2017.

Owen was unsatisfied with simply completing one donation card. The Secondary 2 Bowling Academy student-athlete has requested for his second donation card so as to do more for athletes less fortunate than himself. His excellent display of character truly exemplifies a Learned Champion With Character.
